

Ruling Council of the Empire of Adammia

Act 29

Political Parties Act 2015

This Act of Council hereby amends the Political Parties Act 2013 to make minor adjustments to the way political parties are run.

Section 1

- a) It is no longer required for the President of a political party to be elected annually. However, there must be a President in place at all times. If a party does not have a President for a continuous period of over two months, it will be struck from the Political Party Register.
- b) The President of a political party need not act as a political leader, but must carry out the following functions:
 - i. Maintain a register of all members of the political party. Only full or honorary citizens can be official members of a political party.
 - ii. Report annually the number of members in the political party to the Office of State. The Office of State must then publish these numbers for all political parties.
 - iii. Should the party wish to rename or dissolve itself, inform the Office of State of these wishes. The Office of State should amend the Political Party register accordingly, but also keep records of dissolved parties and names previously used by parties.
