

Office of the Emperor of Adammia

Decree LXXXIV

UPON OUR IMPERIAL MAJESTY'S SOVEREIGN COMMAND,
NOTING that it should be made easier for nominations to be made for general elections;
BE IT DECREED as follows:

Amending the Elections and Diplomacy Act 2016, the Chancellor may, at their discretion, accept a nomination by a candidate for a general election made by means other than submission of the official nomination form, provided that their consent to being nominated is clearly communicated. It shall be the case that a timely and valid submission of the official nomination form shall be the only way in which acceptance of a candidacy shall be guaranteed, but nomination by other means may be accepted where appropriate in order to expediate the running of elections.

This, the eighty-fourth Imperial Decree of Our Imperial Majesty Emperor Adam the First, is decreed at Asquith House in Turing in the Colony of Lagentia, on this the twenty-fourth day of November of the two-thousand and twenty-second year of the Common Era, and is signed into immediate effect.
